Thank you to everyone who came out and auditioned! Lauren and I were really excited by the number of great auditions that we saw, which makes casting a show like this much more difficult. Luckily, this show has a lot of great roles with lots of opportunity for stage time. For those who know me as a director, I also work to find ways to get people onstage in additional ways apart from those directly written into the script. We are going to have a lot of fun with this show, and feel free to brush up on your British accents! Looking forward to seeing everyone on Sunday and getting this show started!
